

Your super, your future money

Super is money paid by your employer, in addition to your salary. It's paid into a super account – usually of your choice – where it's invested on your behalf by professional investment managers. Once you retire and reach the age you can access your super, you can use the money in your super account to support your lifestyle.

It's important to keep in mind that where you save and how you invest your super during your working life can make a difference to how much you'll have to do the things you want when you retire. So, being with the right super fund is important.

What are you looking for?

I'm starting a new job

The choice is yours

The government has introduced a set of new rules on super where you will keep your existing super fund when you change jobs – that is your super account will be 'stapled' to you, unless you choose elsewhere. But if you're starting your first job and you have never had a super account before you will need to choose one, or your employer will create an account for you to a default fund they have chosen.

Remember not all superannuation funds are the same, so it's important for you to take charge of your super and choose the right fund that will help grow your retirement savings. That's why if you're an Australian Retirement Trust member, we encourage you to let your employer know you'd like them to pay your super into your Australian Retirement Trust account to help grow your retirement savings through sound investment performance, low fees and member benefits designed to help you grow your super for the future.

Why choose Australian Retirement Trust?

As one of Australia's largest super funds, Australian Retirement Trust (ART) is proud to take care of over $280 billion in retirement savings for 2.3 million Australians. As an industry super fund open to all Australians, we don't pay shareholders, which means we are focused on lower fees and can reinvest profits back to members as better value products and services.

Whether our members are starting out their working life, already retired, or somewhere in between, we'll guide them to help ensure they're secure, confident and protected. We're here to help you retire well with confidence, focused on strong long-term investment returns, lower fees and the information and access to advice you need to manage your super and retirement.
